BACKGROUND

As part of our new STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) initiative launched in November of last year in partnership with Burroughs Wellcome Fund (BWF), the NCSHP is promoting TuPortalSTEM and our STEM initiative at booths in different community events to raise awareness and increase access to information among middle and high school Hispanic students and their families of STEM education and career opportunities.

Our objective is to empower Hispanic students to discover a new passion for STEM education and encourage them to pursue careers in STEM fields.

REQUIRED

- Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) field: You are a college/graduate student in a STEM field who is excited to discuss your STEM background with Hispanic students.
- Mission-Aligned: You are passionate about making an impact by providing access to educational opportunities for Hispanic youth and resources for the community.
- Vehicle: You have a reliable method of transportation to get to community events. (Mileage is covered).

YOUR ROLE

- Help us give out information to students and families who come up to our booth and talk about TuPortalSTEM.
- If you have a STEM background, speak to participants about how you got into your field, why, & what you like about it.
- Engage Hispanic students in STEM related activities. We will give you information about TuPortalSTEM and the STEM activities to be offered at our booth.
